

How can we make working/learning from home more sociable in a less contrived and more comfortable way

